Introduction

For centuries, Egypt has been among the most fertile countries in the region. With its sweet water, nutrient-dense soil, and year-round fantastic weather, Farco is offering the best produce Egypt has to offer and sharing it with the world.

Our Mission

It's our mission to be not only one of the most trusted names in Egypt, but the entire world. The entire world deserves a chance to try the best grapes, garlic, and more grown in Egyptian soil, and through our partnerships and continued growth, we're making that a reality.

About Farco

In just a little over 4 years, Farco has grown tremendously with clients across the world ordering our Egyptian-grown produce. We've enhanced our technologies, for better harvest and longer shelf life.

Vision

We imagine a world where fruits and vegetables have long shelf lives without the need for harmful additives or preservatives. Farco is making that possible with our innovations in growing technologies along with our own storage technologies

FRESH ONION

Belong to the Allium family of plants, which also includes chives, garlic, and leeks. These vegetables have characteristic pungent flavors and some medicinal properties. Onions vary in size, shape, color, and flavor. The most common types are red, yellow, and white onions. The taste of these vegetables can range from sweet and juicy to sharp, spicy, and pungent, often depending on the season in which people grow and consume them.
